

SAAC 2019 Representative of the year Award Winner

2019 Representative of the Year - Robert Collins, CAS | Collins and Associates

The Representative of the Year Award is presented to an inside or outside sales representative from a member company who exemplifies integrity and professionalism for their company and the industry, while also elevating the industry and its members by exhibiting excellence through best practices.

"Bob has served in the promotional products industry for almost 45 years and as the SAAC president from 1984-1985," says his nominator. "His knowledge, integrity and great character help to better our association."
